Notes for Johann Nicolaus Sitter:

Johann Nicolas Sitter (1768-1820) was born in Zillingen (later Zilling) at a time when the community served as a French battle plan camp (1756-1763) during Seven Year War between the allies of France/Austria/Russia against Frederick II and Holy Roman Empire (Germany states).

Nicolas' great and great-great grandfathers shared a similar scenario when they were members of the the Lutzelstein community (the pass through the Vosges Mountains connecting Lorraine and Alsace). The French, in 1681, after building "the road" through areas just south of Hangviller, Zilling and Wintersbourg, attached Lutzelstein to France, renaming it La Petite Pierre. This is actually the point in time when Sitter's became part of France and remained so until they emigrated to Canada.

Following the Seven Year War, Lord Michel Elvert of Zilling had plans to deforest an area at the edge of Zilling. A man by the name of Sitter was the appointed warden of the forest (Interestingly, I found a reference to the name Sitter meaning by edge). The villagers protested and the plans were held up for two years before in 1788, the area was deforested. I could not find any other details on this. The deforested land was left the villagers who early shared and farmed the land.

This information warrants closer examination.

Notes for Nicolas Sitter:

The following is from a pamphlet compiled by J.H. Beers & Co., Toronto, in 1905.....Commemorative biographical record of prominent Citizens of Lambton County

Nicholas Sitter, grandfather of our subject, was a native of the above Province, and there grew to manhood, following the peaceful pursuit of farming.

He had fought under the Emperor Napoleon, during the great general's wonderful career. In France (Zilling), Nicholas Sitter married Barbara Phillips, and they became the parents of eight children : Nicholas, Catherine, Peter, Jacob, Valentine, Barbara, Christina and Caroline.

At that time in France it was customary for all boys, when they reached the age of eighteen years, to begin training to enter the army, and as the sons of Mr. Sitter had no desire to enter the army, they influenced their father to dispose of his holdings and sail for America. This he did in 1836, making the trip from Havre de Grace to New York, whence the little band of home-seekers made their way to Ontario, locating in Haldimand County.

They were among the earliest settlers of Rainham township, and there they settled down to pioneer life.

The country was new at this time: wolves, bears, deer and other wild animals roamed the forests; there were no schools or churches, and no roads to guide, except the trail of the Indians. In fact there were no traces of civilization whatever. It was in such a country that the little band settled, taking up 100 acres of land, and here, after erecting a little log cabin, started to clear a home from the forest.

After years of hard work this was accomplished, new buildings were erected, and Nicholas Sitter, before his death in 1857, saw the farm in a fairly cleared condition. His wife died in 1885, and they were buried in Rainham cemetery. They were members of the Lutheran Church.

Nicholas Sitter, the father of our subject, was a native of France, born there in 1818, and there received his education, mostly in German. After locating in Rainham township, he, with his brothers, assisted his father in clearing a home. He married Catherine Fess, also a native of Alsace, France, daughter of Soloman Fess, who came to Canada about the same time as did Mr. Sitter. Nicholas and Catherine (Fess) Sitter were the parents of: David, a resident of Forest, Ont., who married Hannah Mumma; Anne, who married William Mumma; Peter, of Sarnia township, who married Matilda Christler; George, our subject; Nicholas, who died in "Warwick township, and who married Cinderella Lampman; and Barbara, who married Isaac Burse, of Arkona.

In the latter forties the family sold out their holdings in the County of Haldimand and located in the County of Lambton, purchasing a tract of 100 acres of land on Lot 21, Concession 5, of Warwick township, and there settled down to claim a home from the wilderness. There the remainder of Nicholas Sitter's life was spent. He also purchased 100 acres of land near Bethel, Warwick township.

He lived to the ripe old age of eighty-four years, dying in 1902, and was buried in the Mennonite cemetery, in which faith he died. His wife died in 1879 on the farm, and was buried in the same
